

IS LOVE DISEASE? ASKS DR. BROWN, BRITISH EXPERT

He Writes of a Machine to Cure the Distemper
Cupid Causes.

SYMPTOMS DESCRIBED.

If You're Restless and Don't Know What Ails You,
You've Got It.

Marguerite Moores Marshall.

No thing new for a god to be behind a machine, but who ever heard of a machine behind a god? Yet that is the impious suggestion of William Brown, M. A., D. Sc., who in the current number of the Strand Magazine discusses the question, "Is Love a Disease?" Dr. Brown concludes that it frequently is, and that the little god Cupid should be subjected to the stern discipline of the psycho-analysis apparatus. But first as to the nature of love. Dr. Brown's analysis seems not to differ so extraordinarily from certain widely held notions. "Love," he tells us, "is extremely complex and to this complexity it mainly owes its strength. But it is not a complex emotion, since it is not an emotion at all. When a man is in love his feelings in relation to his idol vary from day to day, and even from hour to hour, according to changing circumstances."

SOME OF THE FEELINGS OF A MAN IN LOVE.

"He feels joy and tender emotion in her presence, sorrow in her absence, anxiety when adversity threatens her, anger toward those who do or attempt any harm to her, gratitude (at least in certain cases) toward those who befriend her—and many other emotions in other circumstances. His love consists of a complex system of emotional dispositions centered about the idea of the loved one. Out of all the various possible ideas, only those are selected and retained in memory which support the lover's high opinion of the excellencies of his beloved. Her faults and deficiencies are not merely overlooked—they literally ARE NOT for him. For this reason, his ancient representative Love with bandaged eyes.

"A companion passion to love is that of hate," continues Dr. Brown. "The relation between them is a very close one. In fact, the emotional dispositions which go to make up these two passions are almost identical. There is a fascination in hate just as there is a fascination in love; in both cases the attention is intensely fixed upon the object. This fact will be found to explain in outline most of those mysterious cases where love turns into hate. There may be continued oscillation from one passion to the other. LOVE AND CONTEMPT A COMMON COMBINATION."

"Another paradoxical combination is that of love and contempt. Yet it is common—alas! all too common. And it is tolerably easy to explain in terms of the evolution theory. The love corresponds to the conservation of the race; the contempt to that of the individual who feels that he or she has, from an egoistic point of view, made a bad match."

"Finally, there is the problem of jealousy. Some psychologists explain it in terms of love, but this is not entirely convincing. The two states of mind are closely related and indeed almost invariably found together. Many a woman instinctively refuses to believe that her lover can be earnest unless he displays jealousy on appropriate occasions. In many cases outraged sense of ownership would seem to be a sufficient explanation."

"The biological explanation of jealousy is obvious; its psychological inadequacy is also obvious. We cannot explain it or explain it away. Let us endeavor to make away with it! No verminiferous appendix is half so useless."

PROCESSES OF FALLING IN LOVE DESCRIBED.

When Dr. Brown gives a careful description of "the process of falling in love."

"After the three preliminary stages of admiration, the attraction of pleasure and hope, there occurs a crystallization of manifold new perceptions discovered by the lover in his mistress, which endows her with all the characteristics of the ideal as far as may be. The next stage is that of doubt, when reason raises its head and threatens to intervene. If this painful state of uncertainty is safely passed a second 'crystallization' occurs, similar to the first in nature, but of much greater potency. The lover submits to his fate, and the whole tide of his life sets toward this one goal. The passion is completely established."

"These stages," the doctor adds, "may not be, in fact seldom are, absent to the person concerned. He may not become aware of what is wrong with him until the passion has reached its full development. The experienced onlooker is generally not so blind."

"We are left, then, then asserts, with the striking resemblance which love presents to certain forms of mental disease. Besides the 'fixed idea' there is the period of doubt and uncertainty which the individual does not know what is the matter with him, but feels restless, depressed and lost of sorts. There is foolishness of will power, which may even persist after the love has become manifest. Again, there is often a complete change of temperament and character, not always for the better."

"Love, which requires as too violent to be quite normal. It runs entirely counter to the evolution theory. It brings death more often than life."

MACHINE FOR THE REMEDY OF THE WHOLE TROUBLE.

And the remedy? The machine method of suggestion, preceded by psycho-analysis. By means of a machine provided for this purpose, the abnormal emotional tendencies of the subject can be discovered and studied, and the reason and will of the lover directed to control them. "Let us imagine," the doctor writes, "the instance of a pair of lovers who, owing to some internal reasons, jealousy, etc., love is not flowing smoothly. The actual curative treatment, so far as it is mental, would be to make take the form of 'suggestion' and a talking of the matter out with the patient. The psychologist would prescribe measures for directing the flow of the patient's ideas and emotional tendencies into other channels. Cases of 'hopeless love' could be treated in a similar way."

FLAMES IN TREASURE HOUSE

Art Objects Damaged at Italian Villa of Barclay H. Warburton.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 7.—Rosemary, the beautiful Italian villa of Barclay H. Warburton, on the Old York Road in Jenkintown, and its contents, including paintings and other valuable works of art, were damaged by a fire late yesterday that swept the eastern wing of the house on the first floor, practically the entire second floor and parts of the third.

The damage is estimated at between $70,000 and $80,000, the greatest loss being on the contents.

This is the third fire on the estate, which adjoins that of John Wanamaker. The servants set to work to save furniture, paintings and statuary, the villa being a veritable treasure house. It took two hours and a half for the many fire companies which responded to put out the blaze.

Hurricane Steinway Tunnel Case.
ALBANY, Feb. 7.—Attorney General Carmody has given the creditors and stockholders of the New York and Long Island Railroad Company until next Monday to file an answer to the complaint in the action begun by the State for the revocation of the franchise of the Steinway Tunnel, under the East River. The company requested an extension of twenty days in which to file the answer and was given five.

Molten Metal Burns Six.
SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Feb. 7.—Six persons were injured and the foundry of the General Electric Company's works here was damaged to the extent of $20,000 by an explosion of a blast furnace last night. One wing of the foundry is a wreck. Beneath tons of debris it was feared late to-night at least two workmen were buried.

Congressman Malby Ill.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—Representative George Malby is confined to his rooms at the Willard with a severe attack of tonsillitis. The condition of the New York Congressman is giving his friends great concern, although his nurse reported to-day that he is resting comfortably.

Through Way Unhurt, Cat Killed.
Col. Beverly Winford Wrenn, who was aide on the staff of Gen. Robert E. Lee in the civil war, died at Mrs. Malley's sanitarium, No. 29 West Seventy-first street, yesterday.

Beauty of Hair and Skin Destroyed

(Dr. de Werthe in The Graphic.)
"Washing the head makes the hair brittle, splits it, and causes streaky color. Dry shampooing with thorax keeps the hair fluffy, clean and bright. Put a cupful of cornmeal in a fruit jar, add an original package of thorax, and shake well. Sprinkle a spoonful on the head and brush through the hair once a week. This treatment makes hair grow long and abundant."

"Fine complexion are destroyed by powders that clog the pores and greasy creams that darken the skin. A genuine complexion beautifier can be made at home by dissolving an original package of mayonaise in half a pint of witch hazel. Gently rub this solution over face, neck and arms in the morning and it will 'hold' all day. It will not rub off or show like powder and makes the skin soft, satiny and pliable."

"If you have chaps or cold sores or rough, red skin, apply Mother's Salve. It is antiseptic and healing, and is a splendid remedy for pimples, eczema, sores and skin afflictions."—Advt.

ARE YOUR KIDNEYS WEAK?

Thousands of Men and Women Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect it.

Nature warns you when the track of health is not clear. Kidney and bladder troubles compel you to pass water often during the day and get up many times during the night.

Unhealthy kidneys cause lumbago, rheumatism, catarrh of the bladder, pain or dull ache in the back, joints or muscles, at times headache or indigestion, as time passes you may have a swollen complexion, puffy or dark circles under the eyes, sometimes feel as though you had heart trouble, may have plenty of ambition but no strength, get weak and lose flesh.

If such conditions are permitted to continue, serious results are sure to follow; Bright's disease, the very worst form of kidney trouble, may steal upon you.

Prevalence of Kidney Disease.
Most people do not realize the alarming increase and remarkable prevalence of kidney disease. While kidney disorders are the most common diseases that prevail, they are almost the last recognized by patients and physicians, who usually content themselves with doctoring the effects, while the original disease constantly undermines the system.
